ACTION REQUEST: Approval of Academic Calendar for 2007-2008

The following principles influence the academic calendar on the Ann Arbor campus:

- The number of class days in the fall term should be as close as possible to the number of class days in the winter term. Fall 2007 has 67 class days and Winter 2008 has 68 days.

- Classes should not begin before September 1. Starting classes in August would lead to significant problems for both students and faculty.

- Spring break should fall on the eighth week of winter term so that schools and colleges have the option of completing seven-week mini-courses before break.

- Classes normally begin on the Tuesday after Labor Day in order to provide a two-day fall study break, a policy initiated as of Fall 2002.

The attached calendar has been shared with many faculty and administrative groups and meets the established criteria.

I am writing to request its approval.

Respectfully submitted,

Paul N. Courant, Provost and Executive Vice President for Academic Affairs

Background for Academic Calendar 2007-2008

Holiday Issues
University Honors Convocation has been scheduled a week early (March 16) to avoid a conflict with Easter Sunday, which will occur on March 23, 2005.

In spite of efforts to avoid a conflict, the last two days of Passover will overlap with commencement activities April 25-27 as they did in 2005. The University cannot delay commencement a week because such a schedule would impinge on the Spring, Spring/Summer, and Summer Terms. In 2008 it is especially important that the Winter Term end in April, because several residence halls are scheduled to be renovated over the summer, and the University will need time to complete work and ready the dorms for incoming students in August.

This year, the University worked with Hillel to accommodate observant Jewish families who wanted to attend their loved-one’s graduation while adhering to dietary restrictions associated with the holiday. Hillel took reservations and pre-payment to provide Kosher for Passover meals and served 240 students and family members on the Friday night of commencement weekend, 150 on Saturday noon, 125 for Saturday dinner, and 100 on Sunday. A similar accommodation will be needed in 2008.

Spring Break
The spring break in 2008 falls as it traditionally has on the eighth week of the winter term. The Ann Arbor Public Schools often tries to coordinate its Spring Break with that of the University, but the school system does not yet have a contract for 2008.

Number of Class Days
Fall term has 67 days; winter has 68 class days. This is in the middle of our range of 67-69 per term.

Frequently Asked Questions
Until Fall 2002, Michigan began classes, if possible, the Wednesday following Labor Day. This calendar reflects the new tradition of starting the Tuesday after Labor Day in order to allow time for a two-day study break in October.
