ACTION REQUEST

Subject: Report of Faculty Retirement

Action Requested: Adoption of Retirement Memoir

Mark J. Perry, Ph.D., professor of finance in the School of Management, University of Michigan-Flint, retired from active faculty status on December 31, 2020.

After receiving his B.A. degree in business administration in 1986 from Metropolitan State University in Minneapolis-St. Paul, M.N., Professor Perry attended the Curtis L. Carlson School of Management at the University of Minnesota-Twin Cities and received an M.B.A. degree in finance in 1987. Professor Perry then pursued additional graduate studies at George Mason University and earned an M.A. degree in economics in 1990 and a Ph.D. degree in economics in 1993. He joined UM-Flint's College of Arts and Sciences faculty as an assistant professor of economics in 1996, served for three years as the chair of the Department of Economics, and was promoted to associate professor with tenure in 2002. In 2003, Professor Perry joined UM-Flint's School of Management as an associate professor of finance, was promoted to professor in 2007, and served as area coordinator for four years.

Professor Perry published 28 research articles in peer-reviewed economics and finance journals, authored several book chapters, co-authored a book, and published more than 300 editorial publications in media outlets including The Wall Street Journal and The Washington Post. In addition, he has appeared more than 100 times on national TV and radio shows and testified before two congressional committees.

The Regents now salute this distinguished faculty member, scholar, and leader by naming Mark J. Perry, professor emeritus of finance.
