Subject: Report of Faculty Retirement

Action Requested: Adoption of Retirement Memoir

Jeffrey S. Warren, M.D., professor of pathology in the Medical School, retired from active faculty status on October 31, 2026.

Professor Warren received his A.B. in zoology (1976) from Miami University and his M.S. and M.D. (1980) from The Ohio State University. He completed an internship in internal medicine (1980-81) and pathology residency (anatomic and clinical), (1981-85) at the Indiana University Medical Center followed by a fellowship in immunopathology (1985-87) at the University of Michigan. He joined the University of Michigan faculty as a lecturer in 1987, was appointed assistant professor in 1988, and promoted to associate professor in 1993, and professor in 1999.

Dr. Warren's research focused on the pathophysiology of immune complex vasculitis, granulomatous pulmonary vasculitis and the role of iron in atherogenesis. His work was supported by the National Institutes of Health, American Heart Association, and American Lung Association. Later work focused on the use of large data sets toward earlier ascertainment of primary immunodeficiency disorders. He authored or co-authored more than 90 peer-reviewed publications and nearly 70 textbook chapters and reviews. Throughout his tenure, his clinical practice domain was immunology with emphasis on autoimmune and immunodeficiency diseases and disorders of complement. Dr. Warren served twenty-one years (1993-2013) as director of the Division of Clinical Pathology and as director of the University of Michigan Health System (now Michigan Medicine) Clinical Laboratories. These roles entailed recruitment, supervision, and mentoring of two dozen faculty members and medical leadership of the health system-wide clinical laboratories. Dr. Warren held the Aldred Scott Warthin-Carl Vernon Weller Professorship of Pathology (renamed the Aldred Scott Warthin Professorship in 2006) from 1997-2019. He served national professional organizations including the American Society of Clinical Pathology, the College of American Pathologists, and as a member of the examination committee of the American Board of Pathology. Professor Warren mentored more than forty undergraduate, medical, and graduate students, as well as pathology residents and postdoctoral fellows. He received the Department of Pathology Residents' Outstanding Teacher Award in 1995, 2005, and 2024.

The Regents now salute this distinguished physician, scholar, and teacher for his dedicated service by naming Jeffrey S. Warren, professor emeritus of pathology.
