Subject: Report of Faculty Retirement

Action Requested: Adoption of Retirement Memoir

Anne F. Schott, M.D., clinical professor of internal medicine in the Medical School, retired from active faculty status on November 30, 2026.

Dr. Schott earned a B.S. from the University of South Alabama (1985) and an M.D. from the University of South Alabama College of Medicine (1989). She completed an internship and residency in internal medicine at the University of Virginia Medical Center (1992). After completing fellowship training in hematology/oncology at the University of Michigan, Dr. Schott began her career at the University of Michigan as a lecturer in internal medicine in 1996, advancing to assistant professor in 1998, clinical assistant professor in 2003, clinical associate professor in 2006, and clinical professor in 2014.

A medical oncologist and clinical researcher dedicated to breast cancer, Dr. Schott built a career defined by exemplary patient care, leadership in clinical trials, and mentorship of the next generation of investigators. She maintained an active breast cancer practice and was recognized for clinical excellence as an inductee of the Department of Internal Medicine's Academiae Laureati Medici (2015). Her scholarship advanced patient-oriented clinical and translational research, including investigator-initiated and national group clinical trials. She served in institutional leadership roles in clinical research as Rogel's associate director for clinical research (2016-25), and as vice chair of IRBMED from 2022-present. Nationally, Dr. Schott provided sustained leadership within the NCI-funded SWOG Cancer Research Network as an executive officer and subsequently as deputy chair (2004–19). As an educator and mentor, she guided junior faculty and fellows across multiple medical school departments, and helped create SWOG's Integrated Translational Science Center and its annual translational workshop.

The Regents now salute this distinguished faculty member by naming Anne F. Schott, clinical professor emerita of internal medicine.

Respectfully submitted:

Jon Kinsey
